

CAUCUS APPROVES FREE SUGAR IN 1916

Senate Democrats Also
Establish Free Raw Wool
In Tariff Schedule

SIX OPPOSE SCHEDULES

No Attempt Made to Bind Members to Action of Caucus--
May Offer Resolution

LIVELY DISCUSSION ALL DAY

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Free sugar in 1916 and free raw wool are now established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved late today by the Democratic caucus of the senate after a two days' fight. The sugar schedule as reported by the majority members of the finance committee and practically as it passed the house, was approved by a vote of 40 to 6. Free raw wool as submitted by the majority, and just as it passed the house, swept the senate caucus by a vote of 41 to 6.

Ratifies Wilson's Tariff Policy.

This ratification of President Wilson's tariff policy, he having insisted upon the wool and sugar propositions before the ways and means committee in the beginning, came after a long series of developments since the tariff bill passed the house in which the president has been an active participant. When the fight of the anti-free sugar and anti-free wool Democrats was getting hot the president issued a public statement declaring that any suggestion of compromise on his wool and sugar schedule ideas was absolutely out of the question and later he stirred all administration leaders to action when he made his charge about the existence in Washington of an insidious lobby investigation of which has brought results regarded as favorable to the tariff bill. The six Democrat senators who voted against free sugar on the final vote approving the schedule were Hitchcock, Nebraska; Newlands, Nevada; Ransdell and Thornton, Louisiana; Shafrroth, Colorado; Walsh, Montana. The six who opposed free raw wool to the end were Chamberlain, Oregon; Newlands, Nevada; Ransdell and Thornton, Louisiana; Shafrroth and Walsh.

No Attempt to Bind Members.
No attempt was made in the caucus today to bind the members to the action of the caucus. The question will come up when the entire bill has been passed upon. Some members will fight it but administration leaders said tonight they believed only the two Louisiana senators would ask to be released from the caucus pledge if one is submitted. The general opinion is that a binding resolution will be offered. Approval of the schedule came after prolonged discussion and after several amendments had been voted down.

On some of the amendments the opposition showed more strength, the maximum being ten votes for Senator Shafrroth's amendment to the sugar schedule. This would have eliminated free sugar and substituted a duty of approximately one-half cent a pound on refined sugar. This amendment was lost by a vote of 37 to 10, Senators Thompson, Chamberlain, Hitchcock, Newlands, Shafrroth, Lane, Ransdell, Thornton, Tillman and Walsh voting for it.

Thompson Offers Amendment.
When this had been lost, Senator Thompson of Kansas offered an amendment to retain the Underwood rate for three years, reduce to fifty per cent in 1916 and 25 per cent each succeeding year until it reached the free list. Senators Chamberlain, Fletcher, Hitchcock, Newlands, Shafrroth, Thompson, Tillman and Walsh, supported this amendment. An amendment offered by Senator Thornton to eliminate the free sugar provision and maintain the Underwood rates indefinitely was supported only by Senators Ransdell and Thornton.

Senator Walsh offered the amendment to the wool schedule proposing a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem on first class wools and that wools of the second and third class, such as carpet and clothing wool, be free. This was defeated 39 to 7, senators voting for it being Chamberlain, Newlands, Ransdell, Shafrroth, Thompson, Thornton and Walsh. Three senators were absent, Culbertson, Owen and Lewis.

Discussion of the issues was lively all day. Senators Ransdell, Thompson, Thornton, Newlands, Lane and Shafrroth took up most of the time for the opposition, while the chief administration defendants were Senators James, Thomas and Pomerene. When sugar and wool had been disposed of the caucus ratified the committee amendment placing hair of the Angora goat on the free list. Consideration of the agriculture schedule was then resumed and a dispute at once aroused over the committee amendment putting a countervailing duty on wheat and flour. As the discussion developed the opposition grew and discussion of the question went over until tomorrow. Some Democrats asserted

SUSPEND HERRINGTON FROM DEPARTMENT

WILL BE GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLAIN TELEGRAM

Special Agent of Department of Justice, Who Asked McReynolds' Removal, May Be Summarily Dealt With.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Clayton Herrington, special agent of the department of justice at San Francisco who sent President Wilson a telegram Sunday night appealing for the removal from office of Attorney General McReynolds—his official superior—because of the circumstances of the resignation of United States Attorney McNab was suspended without pay tonight by A. Bruce Bielski, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

Given Opportunity to Explain.

This action it is said is to give Herrington an opportunity to explain his telegram. If the explanation is not satisfactory officials declare that the special agent probably will be summarily dealt with.

Herrington is a former judge and is in charge of the federal government's bureau of investigation at San Francisco. He helped District Attorney McNab prepare the Riggs-Caminetti white slave cases, the postponement of the trial of which resulted in McNab's resignation and his sensational charges against the attorney general.

Recommends Special Prosecutors.

President Wilson today recommended to Attorney General McReynolds the names of Francis J. Heney, Matt L. Sullivan, Thomas Hayden and others for appointment as special prosecutors in the Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases and the Western Fuel company coal customs cases. No final selections were made. The whole subject was deferred on account of the congested engagement list of the president, practically every moment of his time from early morning until late tonight being occupied with conferences on currency and departmental matters. It is expected that the attorney general and the president will confer early tomorrow, however, and settle finally on two or possibly three men to conduct the prosecution of the cases.

No further comment was forthcoming from the white house or the department of justice on the statements of United States District Attorney John L. McNab whose resignation was accepted yesterday by the president.

Herrington's Statement.

San Francisco, June 25.—Just prior to receiving notice of his suspension from office, Clayton Herrington federal investigator of white slave cases had dispatched a white letter to President Wilson in which he charged that "officials in the departments of justice and of commerce and labor in disregard of judgments of the courts and in violation of law, have prevented the deportation of French prostitutes in California" and demanding an investigation.

In a public statement issued tonight Mr. Herrington criticised the president for his course in the McReynolds affair.

"To sustain a Washington official whose decision he overrules and blame another for doing what he himself now orders done, is not only inconsistent and unjust but is a humiliating evasion of the responsibilities of his high station," Herrington declared.

Pays Tribute to Court.

San Francisco, June 25.—John L. McNab announcing to day before United States District Judge Van Fleet his resignation as United States district attorney and its acceptance by President Wilson, declared:

"I retire content in the knowledge that I have done my best."

McNab paid tribute to the court in his farewell for its just treatment of all litigants, "without regard to wealth or station or their position with the government."

In reply Judge Van Fleet said in part:

"Mr. McNab, I would be stating less than the truth if I did not say that it was with the most sincere regret that I learned of your resignation. Without referring to the circumstances of your departure, I must say the government is losing a painstaking and efficient officer at this end of the department of justice."

Col. Carrington of Baltimore Declares Union of Republicans and Progressives is Necessary.

Baltimore, Md., June 25.—Col. E. C. Carrington, Jr., of this city today sent his resignation as national committeeman of the Progressive party for Maryland to former Senator Dixon, chairman of the national Progressive committee at New York. He gives as a reason for resigning that there is a possibility of the Democrats securing control of the state for many years and that the union of Progressives and Republicans is necessary to prevent control passing to the opposition.

PRESIDENT DISCUSSES CURRENCY QUESTION

CONFERENCE OF BANKERS AND COMMITTEES HELD AT WHITE HOUSE

Administration Measure is Expected to Be Introduced in Both Houses Today—Bankers Set Forth Their Views of Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Wilson had about the cabinet table at the white house tonight the members of the senate committee on banking and currency Democrats and Republicans for a general discussion of the currency question. The conference similar to the one held last week with Democratic members of the house committee on banking and currency gave the president an opportunity to explain his views on need of legislation during the present session and go over to some extent the provision of the administration measure.

To Introduce Bill Today.

The bill is expected to be introduced in the senate and house tomorrow by Senator Owen and Representative Glass. Tonight's conference by accordance followed a hearing early in the day by the president of four bankers who declared for representation of the bankers on the proposed federal reserve board and the retirement of the present bond secured currency. The president invited to the hearing, which was sought by the bankers who are prominent in the American Bankers' association his assistant in the framing of the banking bill Secretary McAdoo, Chairman Glass and Owen of the banking and currency committees.

The views of the bankers were set forth by Presidents George M. Reynolds of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago; Sol Wexler of the Whitney Central National Bank of New Orleans, John Perrin of the Fletcher National Bank of Indianapolis and Festus J. Wade of the Mericantile Trust company of St. Louis.

Discuss Protests at Treasury.

After leaving the president the party adjourned to the treasury department and there discussed the protests in detail. The bankers urged the increase of the federal reserve board, which under the present plan would be composed wholly of seven government officials to eleven members, four whom would represent the banks. These four would be chosen by permitting the directors of each of the twelve regional reserve banks to nominate one man and from the total of the 12 the president would be empowered to select four.

The bankers virtually were in accord on the idea of increasing the amount of federal treasury notes above $500,000,000 or placing no limit on the issue and retiring the $712,000,000 of currency now secured by two per cent bonds within a period of several years by refunding the two per cents with three per cent bonds having no circulation privilege.

Will Consider Proposals.

The president said after the conference which lasted three hours that no changes would be made in the administration measure before it was introduced but that the proposals made by the bankers to day would be fully considered after the bill was launched. The president described his conference with the senators as an interchange of views on the general subject of making any case discussion of the details of the bill.

He said that he took it for granted that his visitors were in favor of legislation during the present session and discussed with them chiefly fundamental principles.

TURNERS FORMALLY GIVEN POSSESSION OF DENVER

Major Perkins Delivers to President Stempel a Golden Key—Great Torchlight Procession.

Denver, Colo., June 25.—Turners and their friends from all sections of the nation were formally given possession of the city tonight when Mayor J. M. Perkins delivered to Theodore Stempel of Indianapolis, president of the North American Gymnastic union, a golden key. Mr. Stempel made a brief response. The ceremony took place on the steps of the capital building and was witnessed by thousands.

A chorus of 350 male voices sung "The Lord's Day" and the "Lorelei," a German folk song, was rendered by a chorus of several hundred school children. Following this a torchlight procession wound its way from the capitol grounds to the auditorium, where a ball and reception was given to the visitors.

DEFEAT PRIMARY BILL.

CONSIDER PLAN FOR U.P.-S.P. DISSOLUTION

Attorney General Holds Long Conference With Robert S. Lovett

AGREEMENT PROSPECTS

Counsel for U. P. Announces That Prospects are Good for an Agreement

UNDISTURBS S. P. CONTROL

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Attorney General McReynolds, at the conclusion of a four hours' conference with Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, and Paul D. Cravath, counsel, announced today that "there were good prospects" of an agreement for the dissolution of the Union Pacific merger. The new plan of dissolution, like all the recent plans submitted, does not contemplate disturbing the Southern Pacific present control of the Central Pacific. Objections raised by the California railroad commission to the original proposition to transfer the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific in connection with the merger dissolution caused the abandonment of this feature of the negotiations. Attorney General McReynolds has announced that he probably will institute a suit as separate proceeding to compel the separation of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific.

Department of justice officials worked until late today upon the new plan but tonight were unable to state definitely that the government would approve it, although they freely declared they were satisfied with an agreement.

Before Lobby Committee.

Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the directors of the Union Pacific railway, told the senate lobby committee that Edward Lauterbach, a lawyer of New York, had approached his company with the statement that he could render service at Washington in removing opposition to the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution. Judge Lovett said a man who represented himself as Congressman Riordan called him on the telephone and urged him to employ Mr. Lauterbach.

Judge Lovett said that a long continued and determined effort was made to have the company employ Mr. Lauterbach to look after its interests in Washington. He made no charge that any corrupt methods had been used to secure the employment of Lauterbach. He did swear, however, as to the telephone message from some one representing himself as Congressman Riordan. A similar telephone conversation had occurred between a man also representing himself as Riordan and Maxwell Everts, counsel for the Southern Pacific.

Judge Lovett said he had made no effort to determine whether it was actually Congressman Riordan who had telephoned to him and to Mr. Everts. He had not doubted it, he said, until he recently learned that many Wall street financial men had been repeatedly called up by men who falsely represented themselves to be congressmen. He now had serious doubts at that it was Congressman Riordan who telephoned, he said. He added that he never met Mr. Riordan and did not know his voice. Otto Kuhn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., a New York banking house interested in Union Pacific, the witness said, had had several conversations with Mr. Lauterbach personally in which the lawyer had referred to what might be expected from the "radical element" in congress in relation to the dissolution plans of the two roads.

"Mr. Kuhn reported to me," Judge Lovett said, "that Mr. Lauterbach had said in substance that a motion was about to be made, I think in the house of representatives, to oppose this proposed dissolution or the disposition of the stocks of the Southern Pacific which is now being held by the Union Pacific and that it probably would also involve a re-opening of the money trust inquiry, I think, and some other matter that had been more or less discussed.

"He said that the radical party, as he called them, or the radical faction, were about to commence these efforts and that they were going to make a point about common banking control—he mentioned some of the congressmen who would lead in this and indicated that he might be very helpful in the matter and that his services were available if desired."

"Did he say what congressmen they were?" asked Chairman Overman.

"Congressman Henry of Texas was mentioned," said the witness, "as the leader of the radical faction, as he called it. I should like to state in that connection, however, that I have known Mr. Henry for a great many years and I never believed for a moment that there was any connection between this gentleman and Congressman Henry."

Judge Lovett said he ignored the efforts to have Lauterbach employed until he became convinced that a conspiracy had been formed that

REBELS CONCENTRATE FORCES ON JUAREZ

EXPECT TO BEGIN ATTACK ON CITY SATURDAY OR SUNDAY

U. S. Officers Confiscate Ammunition Consigned to Mexican Federal Garrison—Diplomats For Whom Anxiety Was Felt Return Safely to Mexico City.

DIPLOMATS RETURN SAFELY.

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—Mexican rebels are concentrating their forces for the proposed attack on Juarez next Saturday or Sunday. They expect to have 2,200 men ready when heavy forces of Bulgarians begin to cross the river.

United States army officers today confiscated 50,000 rounds of rifle cartridges consigned to the Mexican federal garrison at Juarez. The ammunition was shipped here from Douglas, Arizona.

DIPLOMATS RETURN SAFELY.

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—Three diplomatic representatives who it was feared had been isolated by rebels in the state of Michoacan arrived here tonight after what they considered a fortunate escape. They are the French Minister Paul Lafave, the Italian Minister Baron Carlo Alotti and the Austrian chargé d'affaires, Stephen Hedry de Hedri.

Against the advice of the diplomats but with governmental assurances of safety, the diplomats left here six days ago on what they styled a recreation trip, although intending to make a personal investigation of alleged losses by their nations. Quite recently they were in Morelia, capital of the state of Michoacan and the railroad was cut on this side today. Large bands of rebels were reported to be concentrated about the city.

The diplomats, however, finding that they were likely to be cut off made a hasty flight along the railroad to the north and then a wide circuit to Mexico City by way of Queretaro.

Graham Arrested in Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., June 28.—R. W. Graham, wanted by the federal authorities at Phoenix, Ariz., in connection with the smuggling of an airplane across the boundary line into Mexico last month was arrested by a United States deputy marshal tonight on a telegraphic warrant from Phoenix.

Capture Four Armored Trains.

Douglas, Ariz., June 25.—By the taking of the town of Orts today the Sonora troops secured four armored trains in which General Ojeda's federal column originally advanced north of Guaymas, together with large quantities of food and medical supplies.

Seattle, Wash., June 25.—Col. Alden Blethen, editor of the Seattle Times, and his son, Clarence B. B. Blethen, managing editor of the paper, were found not guilty of criminal libel by a jury in the superior court today.

DISCUSS THEMES WHICH INTEREST THE BLIND

THIRTY-ONE STATES REPRESENTED AT CONVENTION IN SESSION HERE.

Said to be Most Representative Gathering of Blind Ever Held—Educational Problems of Both Young and Adult Blind Are Considered—Resolutions Propose Uniform System of Type.

The most representative convention of those interested in the blind, ever held in the United States, began its second day at 9:30 Wednesday. Other such meetings have been larger in point of numbers attending but the thirty-one state schools and over one hundred organizations in all, concerned with the blind which are represented, give the Jacksonville convention the distinction of being the most representative. Twenty-seven heads of state institutions for the blind are present. The delegates enrolled to date number 206.

Questions of education of the newly blinded adult and of relief for the aged and infirm blind occupied the morning session. Further discussion of educational problems and the preliminary report of the committee on the adoption of a uniform system of type for the blind took up the afternoon and early evening. At 9 o'clock, after an intermission of five minutes, during which "America" was sung, a discussion was held, open for all, on the problem of the intermarriage of the blind.

At the morning session the first matter introduced for discussion was "How can the newly blind adult be best fitted to minimize his handicap and hold his place in the community." The following was among the suggestions made for the benefit of the blind, their relatives and friends:

Suggestions to Those Who See.

1. Treat the blind, as far as possible, as if they could see.

2. Don't remind them that they are blind.

3. Don't shout at them. The loss of sight does not necessarily mean the loss of hearing.

4. Don't discuss blind peoples' infirmities before them. (Apply the Golden Rule.)

5. Omit the topic of blindness from your conversation with the blind. Do not enumerate the feats of wonderful blind individuals whom you may have known when talking with a blind person.

6. Blindness does not affect the mental faculties, although the disease which causes blindness often affects the mental and physical capabilities. The adult blind, especially, should be shown which limitations are due to blindness and which to the diseases causing blindness.

7. Don't kill the blind with kindness. (Mistaken kindness often does more harm than good.)

8. Don't wait on the blind too much. Sometimes blind adults are clothed as if they were children by their relatives.

Example: One able-bodied man was still in bed waiting for his mother to come and clothe him when a visitor called.

9. Teach blind adults to make their own toilet.

10. Men who smoke should be shown how to keep the ashes off their clothes.

11. Let the blind person do as much as possible about the house.

Example: Mothers sometimes object to a daughter or a daughter objects to a mother helping when washing the dishes for fear that something will be broken. It is probable that fewer dishes are broken by blind housekeepers than by those who see.

12. Assign some special duty about the house for the blind to perform and then rely on them to do it.

13. Doors should be left open or shut, never half open. Never leave buckets, brooms or other articles in halls, on stairs or in pathways.

14. If a blind person does not do a thing correctly, take the time to correct the mistake. You do not save time by saying, "Oh, it is quicker for me to do it myself." If you show the blind person how to do a thing, even though it takes some attention at first, the future will repay your efforts.

15. Be frank with the blind. They have to depend for certain things upon the sight of those with whom they live. Be as truthful as a mirror—it is the kindest way in the long run.

16. Don't ignore the presence of a blind person.

17. Be as courteous to a blind person as to one who sees. When introducing people, introduce the blind person in accordance with social requirements.

18. Do not grasp a blind person's hand and expect him immediately to mention your name. His thoughts may be far away and you demand of him instantly to make up his mind who you are, while you have the opportunity of looking at the persons you are about to meet long before you greet them. In speaking to a blind person in the presence of others always address him by name, so there may be no mistake as to whom you are speaking.

19. Upon meeting a blind person, address him at once; you should take the initiative in salutations. The facial expression to the sighted tells what the voice alone reveals to the blind.

20. Teach a blind person how to meet people.

Example: Give a blind man a signal so that he can take his hat off at the proper time.

21. Encourage them to go to the front door to receive callers.

In General.

1. Don't exalt or condemn the blind as a whole because you are acquainted with some particular blind individual. Give every blind person an opportunity to prove his ability.

Those who are acquainted with the blind who have had the advantages of an early training in a school are apt to expect too much of adults who lost their sight after school age.

2. For help in securing materials for home instruction in reading, devices for amusements (cards, dominoes, etc.), the addresses of successful blind men and women in our locality, who can give useful advice and by their example inspiration, apply to your state school, state commission or society for the blind.

3. Books for the blind, printed in raised characters, can be secured from many libraries and are sent through the mails without postage.

The Matilda Ziegler Magazine, printed in New York Point and American Braille, will be sent free of expense, to any blind person in America, upon application to the editor, Walter G. Holmes, 250 West 54th St., New York City, N. Y.

The Outlook for the Blind, a quarterly record of the progress and welfare of the sightless (published in ink print), gives constant information about work for the blind. Price, $1.00 a year to the sighted and 50 cents to the blind. Sample copies will be sent free upon application to the editor, Charles F. F. Campbell, 911 Franklin Ave., Columbus, Ohio. (Suggestions for the care and education of blind children will be furnished upon application to your state school for the blind.)

In course of preparation, a pamphlet giving the address, purpose, requirements for admission, name of superintendent, and a brief sketch of the work of every institution and organization for the blind in America is being compiled. For further particulars, apply to the Outlook for the Blind.

Mrs. Aldridge of Joliet opened the discussion with a number of pointed remarks on the importance of teaching the blind self-help. George R. Bellows of Baltimore spoke on the need of cheerfulness among those who are sightless. He said that each cloud has a silver lining and that he has learned to wear his wrong side out. W. C. Sherlock also of Baltimore told of the ignorance usually displayed by those who wish to help the blind, illustrating his remarks by a number of appropriate anecdotes. Mrs. W. I. Scandlin of New York followed with further discussion on the subject of the newly blinded, in which she compared the man who has just lost his sight to an electric battery which has just been disconnected. The thing to do, she said, is to connect the battery and again make life useful. Miss Roberts Griffith of Michigan spoke for a few moments urging the blind to be mutually helpful to the seeing by endeavoring to exchange work for which they are fitted for services which the seeing are able to render them.

The association was now adjourned for fifteen minutes. Two hundred delegates went to the front of the building for a picture which was taken by means of a rotary camera.

The Question of Pecuniary Relief.

After the intermission a special committee report was heard on the subject. "Granting that pecuniary relief is necessary for some blind people, how may this need be best met?" The committee which was appointed at the convention at Overbrook, Pa., consisted of Lucy White, chairman; O. H. Burritt and Charles Comstock. Most of the work of preparation was done by the chairman and the report was read by Mr. Burritt.

The conclusions reached in the report were drawn almost entirely from experiences from work done in Massachusetts although the writer acknowledged that she did not in all cases consider these conclusions final. It is her opinion that it is better to help the blind in their homes than to attempt to gather them into an institution. The discussed numerous examples of blind people who have been committed to almshouses and the advantages of giving them some occupation which would afford them remuneration.

At 12:30 the association adjourned until 2:45 in the afternoon.

Blind and Seeing Children.

At the afternoon session a change was made in the program and discussion intended for Thursday evening was begun. A paper prepared by Miss Janet K. Paterson, supervisor of blind children in the public schools of Newark was read by Mr. Chas. F. F. Campbell. The theme was "Elements of strength and weakness in educating blind children in schools for the seeing and in schools for the blind." In conclusion the speaker said:

"The residential school takes from parents practically the whole matter of training and educating their children. Although boys and girls may be very adaptable to the routine of school life, yet they may not fit themselves into the activities of their own homes. Petty domestic economies, pleasures, and childish quarrels, though important material in developing flexibility of disposition, are not common experiences for children of institutions. Residential schools furnish a mode of life beyond the means of most parents and different from that to which the children return. Institutional training, then, leaves children under the necessity of conquering their home environment."

"If we combine the strong points of the public school with the strong points of the institution we shall have a model school for the blind. The great advantage which the public school method would contribute would be the appreciation of contemporaneous life and the opportunity to share in it. The advantages offered by the institution would be specific training along special lines adapted to the individual.

"The training which will generally produce useful self-respecting citizens with power to know the world of their own generation, with courage to trust their own powers, with spirit to direct their own lives is the education of the blind that will ultimately prevail."

"The training which will generally produce useful self-respecting citizens with power to know the world of their own generation, with courage to trust their own powers, with spirit to direct their own lives is the education of the blind that will ultimately prevail."

The Necessity of Uniform Quality

Coffee.

One phase of this business is the extreme desirability of keeping the product uniform, this being PARTICULARLY true of COFFEE. The average person is perhaps a little more particular about the MORNING CUP of the beverage than about any other article on their MENU. When the coffee varies in quality or flavor some one is apt to hear about it and in time the kick gets back to the one who sold the COFFEE. It is just this phase of the coffee business that has caused us to select BLEND'S UNIFORM IN CUP QUALITY and make it easier to sell the 2nd, 3rd and caffinated orders than it was the 1st order. Our Blend No. 1, represents one of the genuine Mandheling Java and The Old Arabian Mocha and sells at only 45¢ although the same quality sold in packages would cost you 50¢. REMEMBER all of our coffees are sold in BULK.

Keep the Auto or Buggy Bright

Our soft wool dusters are the best ever for your automobile or buggy. They bring better results than feather dusters or rag wipers and do not tarnish the finish.

Wool sponges have more than doubled in price in the past three months but we charge you the same old price. Get one to day. Follow the use of the sponge with one of our oil tan chamois skins and your vehicle will shine like a new one. Our chamois skins were specially selected, are soft in texture and durable in quality.

SOAP AND TALCUM—You will be clean and comfortable both if you use our soaps and talcums. We specially recommend Lana Oil soap; it is equal in quality to soaps of three times the price.

NEW YORK OF CHINA IS REACHED

NICHOLS PARTY ARRIVES AT SHANGHAI

Vivid Description Given of Well Known City—Visit Made to Race Track and Story Told of Remarkable Surgery.

(By S. W. Nichols)
Shanghai, China.

Dear Journal:
We are here in the New York of China and a very interesting place it is. Our journey here from Foochow was undertaken with many forebodings, for we had been repeatedly warned that we might expect a rough sea and all sorts of troubles and then too I remember that it was in that vicinity that a ship went down with all on board somewhere in the eighties and among the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chain, formerly esteemed residents of Jacksonville and intimate friends of myself. They went to Denver and Mr. Chain was in partnership with S. B. Hard, also a former Jacksonville resident and a fine man. At the time of the disaster Mr. Chain was reported to be quite wealthy, but the panic of '93 took pretty much all there was in the state and finally landed Mr. Hardy in the list of failures.

Contrary to all expectations, however, the sea was on its especially good behavior and almost as smooth as a millpond, so that our journey was quite free from any disturbance whatever, for which we were devoutly grateful. On the way up the first officer pointed out a rocky coast where the sister ship to our good steamer, "Haean," went ashore and was total loss, though all on board escaped. The official mentioned was G. A. Crawford, a resident of Ireland, and a fine man. He was especially polite to us and showed us many favors on the way here, taking us all over the ship and in various ways manifesting much interest in our welfare and happiness.

I am thankful I am not obliged to travel second or third class on the China sea, for the way they stow in the natives is indeed a caution. They travel more like cattle than anything else, but it is not to be wondered at, for they are so numerous they can hardly expect anything else. I never saw mankind so in the category of animals before I came to the land where human muscle is cheaper than that of animals; what can we expect? Our berths on the ship were very comfortable and we had a good table and nothing of which we could complain except the slow progress made by the steamer, but we had good many attractions along the way in the shape of native boats, junks and the like and the scenery was often pleasing, as we were seldom out of sight of land. The captain anxiously looked out for fog, for that is the bane of traveling in this region and causes the shipwrecks and a careful navigator will not move when there is any danger of collision or trouble with the dense mist that hides all from view.

Shanghai is a treaty port and a place of great importance. It is located on the Woosung river, forty miles inland, but has water deep enough to float large vessels and our eyes were feasted on the sight of the stars and stripes floating from two United States battleships in the river, while near companions were a German and French battleship. Our good friend, Mr. Crawford, piloted us to our hotel, which is called the Evans Missionary Home and makes a specialty of missionaries and their families, though not refusing any who apply when there is room. The hotel is a delightful place and conveniently located. Mr. Ewarts and I have a room with a verandah looking out on the street and the others are equally well situated. The table is well supplied with good, substantial food and though not stylish, all is neat and comfortable. There are two large tables in the dining room and they are generally well occupied and some one is asked to say grace before each meal and right after breakfast in the morning and supper in the evening all are summoned into the parlor for worship. In the morning some minister preferably is asked to lead. First there is singing, then responsive reading of the Bible and prayer. In the evening the leader reads, after singing, and prays. It is quite different from the ordinary hotel, but it is indeed agreeable.

From information secured from various sources I learn that Shanghai was a fishing village as early as the tenth century and in 1288 it rose to a more important position, a basin district along with five other small places, but there is good reason to believe to several of the interesting spots about the place date from even before that time. There is a record of an ancient temple in this region about the middle of the third century. In the same neighborhood stood another hall and a number of grottoes, all dating a long way back.

By the year 1812 Shanghai had become a place of considerable importance in the way of trade and thousands of junks anchored in front of the city, which had grown to a population of over a million. In 1832 the East India company, with an eye ever open to the main chance, sent a vessel here and tried hard to open a trade with the people of the Flower Kingdom, but the native of that day was too conservative and dubious to have anything to do with the mistrusted foreigners and the company had to give up the experiment, though with great reluctance. In order to keep the foreigners out the Chinese erected forts along the Woosung river and in the immediate vicinity of Shanghai, but they were attacked by British gunboats, which of course came out victorious, took Shanghai and proceeded at once to occupy in the name of Her Majesty for several days. Then flushed with victory the fleet was well fitted out and proceeded to make more conquests, first taking Chingking and then invested Nanking, which was then the viceregal seat of the district and there brought to terms the native officials, who signed the treaty of Nanking, when the real intercourse between China and foreign nations began. By this treaty Shanghai was made an open port and required to admit foreign vessels willingly and let the hated foreigners trade as much as they could, beginning in 1843. There were some troubles regarding titles to land, as might have been expected, but things gradually settled down and disputes were generally settled satisfactorily to the foreigners as a rule, for the weak had to give way to the strong.

But France wasn't going to see Engand get all the trade of this region, so she sent her ships to look over the ground and see what she could accomplish, and the result was the French concession secured in 1848 and on even better terms than those of the British. Here it was that the American missionary, Dr. Boone, first secured land and made a beginning of the great work that has since followed. The settlement gradually expanded till 1854, when the first approach of the Taipings took place and the native city was captured, but the Chinese took refuge in the concessions for safety and their numbers were greatly augmented with the near approach of the rebels in 1860.

The Taipings were strong, but not enough so to hold Foochow, a distance above this place, and it was taken from them a few years later and then there was an exodus from the settlement, but the Chinese were replaced by others more desirable. It was a good thing to live in the foreign concession, for the natives were not subject to the petty and greater extortions generally practiced on well to do native merchants by native officials, whose only desire was al the pinder possible and this will account for the rapid growth of the city, which now numbers a million and is fast increasing in population.

Shanghai is a peculiarly cosmopolitan city and contains within its population people from almost all nations. The part occupied by the British is especially notable for the massive style of architecture practiced by the sons of England and while not at all attractive, it is solid and gives an idea of wealth and stability. The French concession is far more attractive and is laid out with due regard to embellishment. Along the streets are many beautiful residences and grounds and all shows the fine taste of the sons of the nation whose capital is Paris.

Some Scenes.

The wharf is many miles in extent and opposite the city is a great collection of warehouses and places of business, but not very inviting in appearance. There are always in port a great many vessels and also pleasure craft of various kinds to be seen, so that at all times the wharf or bund as it is called has many attractions. Then there are innumerable houses, for hundreds of thousands of Chinese live in this manner and seem to exist, but how is a mystery to a foreigner.

In Shanghai pretty much all the streets are called roads, so we have Museum road, Nanking road and so on. Many of the streets are so crooked and rather narrow, not all to be compared with those of the other cities we have visited, but of course now I am speaking of the part occupied mostly by the foreigners. Get back farther into the native portion and things would be different, yet this city in its business part can well compete with the old part of Boston in the matter of crooked streets and one has to be very careful in going about else he will get lost or go much out of his way.

There are some streets in the newer part of the city that are straight, but they are the exception. It must be remembered that the thoroughfares in the business portion are perhaps twenty to thirty feet wide, so that vehicles of various kinds may pass.

Locomotion is accomplished in various ways in this city and the orient jostles the occident right along. Take a walk on any one of the busy streets and a great variety of sights greets one. The coolie with the load across his shoulder is not often seen, yet he is not wholly absent, but what is that peculiar vehicle there? It is the common method of transporting things in this place and is a queer wheelbarrow with a bed perhaps four feet square and right in the center a wheel thirty inches in diameter and coming right up through the bed and having a frame over it. On each side is the bed of the vehicle and there is a small space in front and back of the wheel and the load is arranged accordingly. There is a man moving and a good lot of household goods piled up promiscuously. Here is a man who has two hogs to transport and a porker rests on each side of the wheel, either tied or in a bamboo basket, contentedly grunting as he is moved along. Here are a mother and several children taking a ride and seeming quite satisfied with the method of locomotion, while another man is struggling with a load of brick, and still another is performing a feat of balancing with a big box on one side of the wheel.

For moving loads horses are practically unknown, drays being pulled by men, while lawn mowers, street rollers and all similar articles or affairs are drawn by men. Occasionally one meets a sprinkler or a mail wagon pulled by a horse, but he seems to be dreadfully out of place and asking pardon for intruding on the territory of the human being. Don't get in the way of the hosts of jinrikishas, which still hold sway in this busy mart, for there are lots of them and their propellers are persistent in claiming the right of way as they go along and look out too for the victorias which are coming to the front in small numbers, but will increase as time goes on. They are a vehicle drawn by one horse and with a wide seat, which will hold three ordinary persons and a small drop seat in front of the larger one, to be used in case of emergency. The driver is perched on a

NEW GAME AND FISH LAWS

NEW RULINGS IN STATUTE ARE EFFECTIVE JULY 1.

Most Important Change in the Fish Law is the "Possession" Clause—Trammel Nets Are Abolished—Game Law Provisions.

The bill abolishing the state fish and game departments, and creating the state game and fish conservation commission, passed the legislature and becomes effective July 1, 1913. This cancels all commissions to fish and give wardens, whose positions will be filled by five state fish and game wardens, who will be required to pass state civil service tests.

No provision is made for special deputy wardens other than constituting sheriffs and constables as ex-officio special deputy wardens, who shall receive as their fees one-half of the fines collected upon convictions secured by them.

Important Possession Clause.

The most important change in the fish laws is in the "possession" clause, which prohibits any person having in his possession any of the following mentioned fish which are less than the length specified for each:

"Black bass, 11 inches; pike or pickerel, 18 inches; white or striped bass, 8 inches; croppie, 8 inches; rock bass, 6 inches; yellow or ringed perch, 7 inches; pike, perch or wall-eyed pike, 13 inches."

This section provides "that if any such undersized fish are taken, the person taking it shall immediately return it to the waters from which it was taken without unnecessary injury to the fish."

"Black bass, pike or pickerel, or perch (wall-eyed pike) can be taken only with hook and line held in the hand or attached to a rod held in the hand." The penalty is $10 to $200 for each undersized fish, or for each black bass, pike or pickerel caught in any manner contrary to the law.

Abolish Trammel Nets.

Trammel nets are abolished and seines are limited to 600 yards in length.

The law also empowers and authorizes the commission to set aside waters as state fish preserves, in which it is unlawful to fish with any device except hand line or rod and line.

The penalty for the first offense is $50 to $100 and $100 to $200 for the second, "and in either case offenders shall stand committed to the county jail to remain until such fine and costs are fully paid."

A movement is already on foot to have the Fox, Rock, Desplaines and Kankakee rivers, and all waters tributary set aside as fish preserves.

Principal Changes in Law. The principal changes in the game law are as follows:

Open season for prairie chickens, Nov. 11 to 24, (both inclusive.)

Open season for mourning doves, August 16 to Oct. 31 (both inclusive.)

Open seasons for squirrel, July 1 to November 15.

Closed season on ruffed grouse (partridge), Hungarian partridge, Mexican blue tail, California Valley quail, California Mountain quail, Capercaillie, heath grouse (black grouse) and wood chuck up to July 1, 1920.

Closed season on wild turkey, sand grouse, partridge and all kinds of pheasants extended to July 1, 1920.

No protection on any kind of blackbirds.

It is unlawful to feed any kind of seeds or grains, or to bait any wild goose, wild duck, brant tail or other wild water fowl, for the purpose of attracting them.

pose of shooting, trapping or ensnaring them.

No person who is not a citizen of the United States or who has not declared his intention to become such can secure a hunting license.

It is unlawful to hunt rabbits with ferrets.

"Whenever a license shall have been issued to any persons under the provisions of this act, and such license shall violate any of the provisions of this act, the license so issued shall immediately be revoked by the commission. This applies to all hunting and fishing licenses.

A fine of $20 to $100 is the penalty provided for anyone who resists or obstructs or interferes with any game warden in the discharge of his duties.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE MEETS

Atlanta, Ga., June 25.—The general assembly of Georgia convened for its regular annual session today and proceeded to the work of organization.

The session promises to be of more than ordinary interest and importance. A strenuous fight on a new school book contract is in prospect, with the possibility that a law may be passed to print the books at cost. A new banking law and important amendments to the insurance and game laws also are on the calendar. By tacit agreement of both sides it seems probable that the procedure so far as the present action is concerned, as far as the present session is concerned.

It is expected that one of the first acts of the legislature after it completes its organization will be to formally re-elect United States Senator Bacon, or more correctly speaking, take such action as is necessary to elect the senator in compliance with the new constitutional amendment requiring the election of members of the upper house by direct vote of the people. The action of the lawmakers will give Georgia the distinction of being the first state to elect a senator in accordance with the direct election amendment. Senator Bacon's present legal status is that of membership in the senate on account of his temporary appointment at the hands of the governor of doubtful legality. The legislature is expected to take early action in the matter in order that Senator Bacon may vote with unquestioned right upon the tariff bill when it shall reach the final roll call.

TO MEET IN MORMON TEMPLE.

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 25.—The local committee in charge of arrangements for the annual convention of the National Educational Association here next month is in daily receipt of advices indicating that the attendance will establish a new high figure in the record of the association's meetings. The convention will be held the week of July 7. The general sessions will take place in the Mormon tabernacle, famous for having the most wonderful acoustic properties in the world. Numerous other halls and auditoriums will be used for the meetings of the different departments and sections of the convention. The speakers before the general sessions will include many of the most eminent educators of the country. It is expected that the convention will perfect the plans for the proposed nationwide campaign to raise $1,000,000 as a permanent interest bearing fund to be used to advance the interests of public education through the association. The money is needed, it is declared, to meet the new demands for educational progress.

Advocates Hundred Weight Unit—

In the Elevator and Grain Trade

for June G. D. Crain, Jr., presents a splendid discussion of the old question of making the hundred weight unit for grain as it is in our money system and in the calculations for coal and hay. To use the arbitrary English method of making calculations in grain longer seems like nonsense when the decimal system of hundreds is so much easier to use and so much easier for the children to learn. Crain is never actually measured except in a very small way, yet when we compute the freight, or its value in dollars, or its value in foreign market, it must be reduced to the hundred weight system either mentally or otherwise.

As Mr. Crain well says, it is only necessary for some great market like

Chicago to begin giving quotations on hundred weights as well as bushels to get every one so used to it that it would adopt itself and no legislative enactment would be necessary to make it universal.

NEW TEMPLE OF ILLINI LODGE DEDICATED FOR I. O. O. F. SERVICE

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIAL TOOK PLACE WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON WITH MANY PRESENT

Grand Master Jennings Assisted by Other Grand Officers Joined With Local Odd Fellows In Exercises--Parade Preceded Afternoon Session--Spacious Quarters Thronged at Night
When General Reception Was Given.

The handsome and spacious new temple of Odd Fellowship, erected by Illini Lodge No. 4 has been impressively dedicated to the uses for which it is intended. The formal service of dedication, preceded by a parade took place Wednesday afternoon. At night another public service was held. Grand Master Jennings making an address and a program of various other excellent features being given.

Ceremonies in connection with the 75th anniversary of Illini Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the dedication of the new lodge home commenced Wednesday afternoon and will continue through Friday. A number of prominent members of the order are pre-show to the world the good such orders are doing to help their fellowmen. You are most worthy and justly entitled to enjoy the comforts and conveniences of your splendid new home.

"Feeling confident that your presence on this occasion will rebound to the credit and glory of Odd Fellowship in Jacksonville and that you may carry away with you the feeling that our city and our people may possibly be equalled but in no case exceeded. I again assure you of a hearty welcome."

Chairman Russel the presented again Grand Master Jennings for the dedicatory address. Mr. Jennings did not talk long as he said the afternoon was too warm for that. However he told some very plain and interesting truths and made clear his reasons for counting the I. O. O. F. the greatest of orders. Among other things he said "I realize that I am in the presence of the oldest lodge in Illinois; one of the richest and one with a membership which cannot be excelled anywhere in the state. I have been a member of the I. O. O. F. about sixteen years but began active work as soon as I was initiated. There are to day in Illinois ty bright looking boys and girls in the band and they play with ability. Their presence too is splendid testimonial to the good work of Odd Fellowship."

Prof. J. H. Rayhill gave a reading, "The Bandit's Daughter," which was so well received that he gave "Tell Me Ye Wild Winds." Prof. Rayhill loses none of his enthusiasm or ability as the years go by and never fails to be a pleasing feature on any program on which he appears. With Miss Gertrude Carter as accompanist, Miss Mabel Mathews sang a solo which was received with great pleasure and an encore was demanded. Miss Mathews is now one of the favorites among Jacksonville musicians.

Grand Master Jennings was then introduced for an address and his theme was Odd Fellowship. He told of the history of the order, dwelt upon the meaning of the dedication of such a handsome temple as Illini Lodge now has and pointed out the cardinal virtues for which Odd Fellowship stands. The grand master speaks without flourishes and impresses his auditors as a man who is sincere in his great love for the order in which he holds high office, a man who recognizes that in this world it is character that really counts. He emphasized the point that Odd Fellows received a great deal for little money and referred to the excellence of the work which is done by the order in maintaining the home at Lincoln. This feature and other he mentioned, he said were sufficient to prove the right of Odd Fellowship to live. Miss Helen Sorrells played with great artistic excellence a violin solo, Miss Jessie Sorrells serving as accompanist. The number was given an encore.

Chairman Bancroft then announced that the next two hours would be spent in social way and that refreshments would be served in the dining room. The guests found great pleasure in inspecting all parts of the temple and enjoyed the bounteous hospitality of the dining room.

The New Temple.

The new temple of Illini Lodge has been described before in these columns and no effort will be made to go into details now. The whole quarters and equipment, however, are such that every member of the order and citizens generally have reason to be proud. The furniture which is mainly of solid, velvet finish mahogany was purchased through Andre & Andre from the S. Karpen & Bros. Manufacturing Co. The upholstery is in golden brown car plush. The parlor furniture is done in fumed or golden oak. J. Marshall Miller, H. E. Frye and P. G. Stein comprised the furniture committee and they certainly used great care in their selections. The about 105,000 Odd Fellows and they represent the best brain and brawn of the state. There are besides 5,000 women associated with us. When I go into a church I do so with a feeling of reverence counting it as sacred ground and I have something of the same feeling for an I. O. O. F. Lodge. Membership in a lodge of this kind will not save a man's soul for that is a personal matter between man and his maker. The Lodge does not take the place of the church but the good Odd Fellow who follows out the teachings of the order as attained the next best thing of the church. This Lodge is not opposed to the church but a supporter of the church. Wipe out of existence all of the Odd Fellow lodges in this state and real estate would suffer greatly. In practically every city and town of the state you will find the "three links" over the best building in the town. The fact that you have erected this beautiful temple here is a credit not only to Odd Fellowship but to this city as well and it shows the faith that you members have in your order and in Jacksonville too.

I believe that if this order did nothing but maintain the home for Orphan children at Lincoln that its existence would be justified and yet this work is carried on at comparatively slight cost to each member. It is a great comfort to me to know that in case of some misfortune to me that my boy and my girl could be cared for at that home under such a man as Dr. Lucas. No one can estimate the value of a good man or a good woman and if it were not for this home and its influences some one of the boys and girls might go down wrong paths. There are 170 of them at the home with good influences about them learning how to make a livelihood after they leave the school. Then there is the home for the aged at Alton. It is not a charitable institution in the ordinary sense for every man here is receiving only that which is justly his and to which he is justly entitled. I am proud to be an Odd Fellow and am proud of the work we are doing.

sent including Grand Master J. E. Jennings, Sullivan; Grand Warden, W. H. Pease, Harvey; Grand Guardian, C. F. McClure, Sullivan; J. H. Sikes, Springfield, grand secretary; Supt. Orphans Home, Dr. J. A. Lucas.

After a prayer had been offered by T. H. Rap, Asa Robinson and William Moore with Miss Joyce Estaque as accompanist.

After a prayer had been offered by the chairman called upon P. P. Thompson, representing Mayor Davis to extend an address of welcome to the grand officers. Mr. Thompson said in part:

"At the request of the mayor, whose public duties cause him to be absent from the city at this time, and as his representative, I greet and cordially welcome you to as far west as you can go and ask you to enjoy your hospitality as of noble hearted a people as could be found within any of the boundary limits of our great state.

JOHN H. SIKES

"Our natural modesty must yield to our enthusiasm and local pride long enough for us to invite your attention to the grand and stately old elm and maple trees which arch our streets, the modest, but comfortable homes of our citizens, our attractive business houses and our progressive citizenship.

"Nothing affords me more gratification, as a citizen of Jacksonville than the fact of the existence of the numerous fraternal organizations now in this city. We have become advanced enough in this country to have societies which stand for that which is good and just and beneficial to all mankind. The Lodge not only does good in the uplift of its own members, in assisting them in living up to the obligations and teachings of their order, but by the help and example of the Lodge and the influence exerted by its members a great benefit results, to those outside the organization. In time of disaster and trouble, the fraternal orders are among the first to lend a helping hand to those who are unfortunate.

"Guided by the spirit of brotherly love, the local members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows have with characteristic generosity caused to be erected this beautiful temple soon to be dedicated to the cultivation and promulgation of that fraternal spirit which is best represented by friendship, love and truth.

"Manhood and womanhood are elevated and civic duties better understood through the teachings of your order and that of kindred fraternal society. May your numbers here increase--may your influence be greatly extended, and may other monuments like this be erected to

SIX GRADUATES AT STATE HOSPITAL

DIPLOMAS ISSUED FROM TRAINING SCHOOL OF INSTITUTION.

Hon. Fred J. Kern, President of State Board of Administration is Heard in Splendid Address—Reception Follows Exercises.

The graduating exercises of the Jacksonville State Hospital training school were held Wednesday evening in the hospital chapel. There were six graduates, Sarah E. Acklin, Thomas E. Deaton, Wesley I. Olroyd, Maria I. Taylor, Mabel E. Vaughn and John D. Watson. Music was furnished by Randall's orchestra and the invocation and benediction was pronounced by Rev. F. A. McCarty. The address of the evening was by Hon. Fred J. Kern, president of the state board of administration. He was a former member of congress and for five consecutive years was mayor of Belleville, his home town where he is editor of the News-Democrat. He succeeded L. Y. Sherman as president of the state board, when the latter was elected to the United States Senate.

The diplomas and class pins were presented by Mr. Kern, who spoke enthusiastically about the efforts of the students. The stage of the chapel was prettily decorated with flowers and potted plants and Superintendent Carriell with other hospital authorities occupied seats on the stage with the graduates. Following the address a reception was held.

HON. FRED J. KERN
Gave commencement address at State Hospital last night.

Mr. Kern's Address.

Mr. Kern is a most forceful speaker and his address was one of great interest and profit. He said in part as follows:

I am here tonight to talk to the graduating nurses of Jacksonville State Hospital. If I did not respect your calling and honor you, I would not be here. I wish to congratulate you on your success and to compliment you on the noble profession which you have chosen. You have consecrated your lives to the work of helping those who cannot help themselves. You are the good Samaritans of this day and country. You extend the hand of help to those in suffering and distress. That is concrete Christianity. It is practicing what the Man of Galilee taught us to do. I do not say it irreverently, but hands that help are better far than lips that pray. I do not disparage the work of any one who is engaged in doing good, and yet I say you can preach a better sermon with your lives than with your lips. You are really rendering service. You wipe the tears of grief from moistened cheeks, and over lives where all is gloom and utter darkness, you tear rifts into the clouds and let the sun shine in. I admire your fidelity, your courage, your humanity, your devotion. May God bless you, may he grant you long life and constant good health, and may He hold you unwaveringly steadfast in the path of public service and public duty.

Speaks of Charity.

There is no word sweeter in any tongue than the word charity, excepting the one exception, the holy word mother. To the word mother all of the other words in human speech must open ranks and bare heads. You are the real charity workers of your country. There is a world of consolation in that thought. Charity may be broadly divided into two great classes, practical charity and sentimental charity. The latter though always well-meant and born of good motives, is often times misguided, misapplied and futile. Most private charity is of this character. Some of it is empirical, much of it is hypocritical and insincere. The kind of charity work which you are engaged in carrying on is of the practical kind. It delivers the goods. It is not experimental. It generally hits the mark. It hears the call of suffering and answers it by the shortest route. It soothes the pain and lays the patient down to sleep and rest. Public charity is directed by brains schooled in science and experience and executed by willing, by skilled and by impartial hands. It plays no favorites and has no nets.

Must Take World As It Is.

In the ideal worlds there would be no suffering, as a matter of course. There would be no hospitals, because there would be no sick people, no prisons because there would be no discord and no crime. There would be no penury nor want, because under the heaven of justice and equality all would have enough. There would be no pain, no misery, no unhappiness, no discontent. Life would be one continuous round of pleasure and one sweet song as John in a trance at Patmos saw. It would be "Sunday every day by and by." I agree that that kind of a world would be very fine indeed. I sometimes think such conditions may come, but the time is, I fear, far off.

ages, millions of years. We will not live to see the picnic, except perhaps in reincarnated form. The point I mean to impress is that practical people must take the world as it is and deal with it, the best they can. They make the most of their opportunities, limited as they are. They know that nature is unrelenting inexorable and brutal. On the one hand it hurlis the thunderbolt, sends fire flood, storm and quake. On the other it plays the music of the spheres, nurses flowers into bloom, stirs the sky with the eternal stars, and stills all strife with the perfect silence of the night. It gave us the perfect form of Apollo Belvedere and of the Greek slave, but as if to impress the contrast it contributed a hideous and misformation for the untidy ward. We take the world as it is and deal with it the best that we can. The Millennium is a long ways off, and to heaven we will journey when this life's fitful dream is o'er.

World Growing Better.

But let me express this: the world is getting better, brighter, nobler, broader, more magnificent every day. Do you believe me? Look around you. Every country in Christendom is building hospitals and schools and asylums and churches. The defectives and afflicted were formerly condemned to death. Let a nurse or an attendant mistreat a patient in a modern well conducted institution and she or he does it at his peril. Even the prisoners are becoming civilized and humanized. Barbarism is being banished and superstition is being driven from the field. Education and culture are taking their places. The progressive movement is on. Government is advancing with gigantic strides. Vice, crime, corruption, are all getting to be less and less.

Praises Administration.

When administrations change nowadays it means progress and not the reverse. The progressive forces always triumph. The party in power can only be defeated by one that is more progressive. The world moves on. The moss-back has had his day. The stand-patter gets bowled over and crushed to earth. The knocker wields his little hammer in isolation and in solitude. All of the retroactionary forces have had their day in court and they have been overruled and their case has been thrown out. The Dunne administration will do better than the Deneen administration did in the management and control of the state institutions. There will be no backward step taken, believe me. The administration will be more efficient and not less efficient. Every change which will be made for the good of the service and with that single purpose in view. There will be no dead ones carried on the pay-roll. Every appointee is expected to earn the wages he deserves. There will be absolutely no graft. The institutions will be run on strict business principles. Every business man is expected to sell to the state at the most advantageous prices. All purchases will be made from the lowest and best bidder. There must be no cruelty, no loafing and no suspicion of dishonesty in the management and conduct of our state institutions.

Caring Well For Patients.

In caring for its unfortunate and helpless wards, the generosity of the people of the state of Illinois is without a parallel. This fact makes my bosom heavy with pride that I am a native, a citizen and servant of Illinois. The state has eighteen charitable institutions within its borders under the control of the state board of administration. In these eighteen institutions there were cared for this day 10,557 male inmates and 8,397 female inmates, under the care of 1,339 male employees and 1,469 female employees. These institutions are maintained at a cost of $5,000,000. Their population is an increasing quantity which is more than keeping pace with the natural increases of healthy and normal population of our state. Particularly is insanity on the increase with our people. The legislature has made provision for two new institutions to relieve the overcrowded condition of our seven established insane asylums. These will cost a million and a half apiece. One will be the new State Hospital for which the site has been purchased at Alton. The other will be the home and colony for epileptics for which the site has been selected. Glory to be Illinois. The state is protecting the weak and schooling the defective. The work is as superb as it is prodigious. It is doing Christ's work here. It is doing what our Saviour would do if he came to Illinois to day. The state is redeeming its splendid destiny. It is realizing the fondest expectations of our fathers.

NAPLES.

On Saturday evening we had a glorious good rain, which caused all to rejoice, after many weeks of continued drought. The corn, meadows, pastures and gardens were drying up. This rain will benefit Scott county many thousands of dollars. The farmers all wear smiles as wide as 40 acres.

The river is still falling, yet a good boating stage is maintained.

The company putting in the electric power and light line is as far as Montezuma and coming north up the river. Many car loads or large chestnut poles, heavy copper wire and other equipment have been shipped here and transferred from cars to boats and are being delivered to where needed. When this line is installed Naples can have power and lights as well as the best river and rail transportation, and a good place to come and spend time fishing and rest.

The excursion season is now on and a number of nice excursion boats make the round trip to Beardstown every few days. Rate, 50c adults; 25c children. Also the floating theatres furnish entertainment and choice music at intervals of one and two weeks. Oh, Naples is right in the swim, or was last spring.

We are to have $3,000 from the state, by us raising a like amount to rebuild our levees. This, we think will make our levees high and strong enough to make Naples immune from high water.

Harvesting was begun on June 18. Many will cut wheat June 22 and 23. There will be a good fruit crop here this year.

There is a good ferry and hard roads across the bottom for automobile and travel.

It is true that women more frequently suffer from kidney trouble than men. It is also true they suffer more intensely, owing to their more sensitive organism. Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." They are tonic in action, quick in results. J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.

Uniform Type Report.

After Mr. Campbell had finished reading Mrs. Paterson's paper on the question of educating the blind and seeing children in the same schools, the delegates adjourned to the chapel of the school to hear the report of the committee on uniform type. The report which was embodied in a booklet of considerable size was not read in full. The salient points of the work of the committee had been embodied in a set of recommendations by the chairman Charles W. Holmes. They formed the basis for discussion. Before the temporary adjournment at 5:30 the question of the meeting place for the convention in 1915 was discussed. Invitations were given by four superintendents, Newell Perry of California, who suggested the advantages of holding the convention in San Francisco the year of the exposition; Millard Baldwin of Maine, W. I. Sandlin of New York and J. H. Hinman of Arkansas. The assembly adjourned temporarily at 5:30 and grouped themselves again for the picture which it had been found necessary to take again. Supper was served at 6 o'clock in the dining room of the institution.

The afternoon meeting and discussion of the report of the uniform type committee was continued at 7:45. A number of the delegates, both superintendents and blind men of note, spoke on the issues involved and the points to be discussed Friday morning, when the report comes up for adoption or rejection.

This committee includes:

Charles W. Holmes, chairman; George M. Carmody, Elwyn H. Fowler, Miss Minnie Hicks, Miss L. Pearl Howard, Robert B. Irvin, H. Randolph Latimer, Edward J. Nolan, Ambrose M. Shotwell and Miss Georgia D. Trader.

Their report is embodied in the following recommendations which were given due consideration.

Recommendations.

Your committee, in pursuance of the instructions received by it from the association, has found from its experimentation that each of the several punctographic systems now in use is seriously defective, and therefore your committee does not feel justified in recommending the adoption of any of them as a whole. As the British Braille, the American Braille, and the New York Point systems, each in its own peculiar way present distinct advantages, your committee feels bound to embody as many of the advantages and exclude as many of the defects of each system as possible.

Therefore, in view of the results of the investigations of your committee, and the conclusions inevitable drawn therefrom,

Be it Resolved: That we recommend to the American Association of Workers for the Blind:

1. That the association adopt, for itself officially and individually, and take all measures to secure the adoption by publishing houses, educational institutions, libraries, etc., for the blind, in this country and abroad, of:

(a) The British Braille alphabet and the American Braille capital prefix, with such modifications, if any as shall be in accordance with the findings of your committee, and that the development of the complete system be in harmony with the principles of three level, variable-base and frequency of recurrence, the system to be known as the Standard Dot System.

(b). That the dimensions of the characters in this system shall exceed a minimum of eighty thousands of an inch from center to center of dots, both vertically and horizontally.

2. That experiments and tests shall be made in diacritical, musical mathematical and other scientific notations, including third and fourth base characters, and in scale of type, and that the ultimate results of such investigations shall be incorporated as a part of the Standard Dot System, this work to be conducted under the direction of the Uniform Type Committee.

3. That the Uniform Type Committee be continued with a membership of seven, and instructed to carry on its work as outlined in this report.

4. That a fund of ten thousand dollars be raised and placed at the disposal of the committee for use in the prosecution of its work, and that a committee of the association be appointed to raise this amount.

5. That your committee be authorized to publish, from time to time, prior to the next convention, its findings and recommendations.

Intermarriage of the Blind.

After the recommendations had been disposed of, and a short intermission taken during which the delegates arose and sang "America," a general discussion was held on the question "How can we emphasize the serious and economic problems involved in the intermarriage of the blind?" The chairman was John F. Bledsoe, superintendent of the Maryland School for the Blind.

"Under no circumstances should a blind man be allowed to marry a blind woman" was the position taken by G. W. Clark of Chicago, the first speaker who characterized the question as a one-sided one.

Among the other points brought out by the succeeding speakers were that blind men and their marriage problems should be decided on the basis of the individual, and not considering the blind man as opposed to the seeing; that marriage between blind men and women should be considered only when adequate means of support were forthcoming and when there was no trace of constitutional blindness in the blood of either party; that the obligations of the individual in this question should be emphasized rather than his rights. Much interest was aroused on the discussion as to the expediency of the holding of socials in institutions for the blind. The question was put to a vote of the blind present, of which 27 voted against such a practice and 19 voted in favor of the socials. The opinion of the general discussion was again the holding of such socials.

The convention was adjourned at a late hour to meet this morning at 9:30.

THE TEMPERATURES.

The temperatures for Wednesday, according to G. H. Hall, weather observer at Alexander, were, maximum 88 and minimum 69. A rainfall of .04 inch was recorded.

JUSTICE COURTS.

C. E. Davis was fined $25 in Squire Dyer's court Wednesday on a charge of using a stallion for public service without first obtaining a state license.

CAUCUS APPROVES

following the adjournment countervailing duty would be stricken off, leaving wheat and flour on the unrestricted free list on a parity with cattle and meats.

Agree on Court's Abolition.

House Democrats in caucus today agreed upon abolition of the commerce court as a party policy, and, turning deaf ears to pleas from their leaders, rejected a plan for the creation of a budget committee to control all appropriations.

Representative Broussard of Louisiana, champion of the commerce court, precipitated caucus action on the mooted question by offering a resolution to authorize hearings of the Sims bill to abolish the court.

Speaker Clark denounced the tribunal as useless and exhaustive and Representative Austin of Georgia, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, offered a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the caucus that the court be abolished during the present session. The resolution was adopted by viva voce vote. Democrat Leader Underwood led the fight for the budget plan and had the support of Speaker Clark. Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, and other powerful house leaders, Mr. Underwood declared that appropriations were running beyond bounds under the present system and urged reform through a committee on estimates and expenditures, with control over all appropriations and power to fix the maximum for each session of congress. This practically was the plan originally advocated by Representative Shirley of Kentucky.

Opposition to the proposition developed immediately, led by Representatives Tribble and Hardwick of Georgia. Representative Tribble insisted that a budget committee centralizing control of appropriations among committee chairmen and other ranking members would constitute the "most gigantic trust ever formed."

Mr. Hardwick's resolution to lay the plan on the table was carried, 95 to 80.

MEETS DEATH BENEATH WHEELS

ROY JACKSON KILLED BY BURLINGTON TRAIN.

Unfortunate Man Steps in Front of Fast Moving Cars—Was Brought to Passavant Hospital—Will Hold Inquest Today.

Roy Jackson, an employee of the Burlington railroad was fatally injured Wednesday afternoon at 2:55, between Waverly and Lower. He was brought to Passavant hospital where he died at 10 o'clock. The young man jumped off a working train onto the main track and did not notice passenger train No. 48 until it was too late. The wheels passed over his body, fracturing his right leg near the hip, breaking his right arm at the elbow, cutting off two fingers. He also received internal injuries. The engineer of the passenger brought his train to a stop with all speed and when the young man was picked up his head was lying across the track, in front of a car wheel. If the train had gone a few feet further, he would have been beheaded.

Mr. Jackson was an employee on the construction gang, which is doubling the track from Jacksonville south. He was 25 years of age and a resident of Waverly. The body was taken to the Reynolds' undertaking parlors where an inquest will be held today.

"In the simplest and most unostentatious of ceremonies Miss Genevieve Coleman and Frederick T. Buffe both of this city, were married at noon today at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. F. Coleman, at Hennepin, Ill. Only the immediate families of the young people with a very few close friends witnessed the marriage, which was celebrated by the Rev. Mr. Walters of the Methodist church of Hennepin. The couple were attended by Miss Elizabeth Coleman, the bride's sister, and Dr. E. A. Garrett of Peoria. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and the pair took an early afternoon train for Denver.

"The bride, who is a stunningly handsome girl, wore a trailing gown of white charmeuse trimmed with duchesse lace. Her long veil fell from a becoming cap of lace caught with a half wreath of lilies of the valley and her bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore pink crepe and carried pink roses.

"The couple will spend three weeks in the west and will take up their residence temporarily on their return at 316 Hamilton boulevard."
